Positive Attitude, Positive Differences, Positive Results

February 2010

I believe I am the candidate who can beat Lloyd Doggett in the general election, and I'm working every day to convince primary voters that I can put the 25th Congressional District back in GOP hands.

As many people considering which candidate to invest their primary vote in are looking for differences between me and Mr. Morovich, I offer the following contrasts:

Polar Opposites on Education, Marriage and Defense

On the issues, I differ greatly with Mr. Morovich on at least three important fronts, as documented in the Liberty Institute's voters' guide.

Defense

I strongly believe U.S. troops should remain deployed in the theater they are engaged in until the military objective of the mission (peacekeeping, humanitarian aide, infusing the rule of law, fighting terrorists, etc.) is secured as determined by the commanders on the scene.

However, apparently regardless of the proximity to attaining the mission of enabling a stable, safe and peaceful citizenry ruled by law, Mr. Morovich indicates on the voters' guide survey that he strongly favors the immediate withdrawal of troops in Iraq.

School Choice

I endorse empowering parents with the ability to choose the best environment for their children to learn, and I strongly favor the utilization of vouchers to shift this decision-making from government bureaucrats to mothers and fathers.

Seemingly satisfied with a "government knows what's best" mentality, Mr. Morovich indicates on the voters' guide survey that he strongly opposes the freedom-to-choose mechanism that vouchers enable.

Marriage as that Between a Man and a Woman

Based upon personal beliefs, fundamental thinking and biblical teachings, I strongly favor defining marriage as being between a man and a woman in the U.S. Constitution.

Apparently at peace watching courts overturn such definitions in state statutes, Mr. Morovich indicates on the voters' guide survey that he strongly opposes placing this legislating-from-the-bench protection in our federal constitution.

Solid Endorsements

I am the one candidate in this primary race endorsed by the Texas Alliance for Life and the Central Texas Republican Assembly.

Why Try Again What Hasn't Worked Before?

A primary vote is an investment for the general election. This is my inaugural bid for the privilege of representing Texans of the 25th Congressional District in the U.S. House of Representatives. Mr. Morovich ran a campaign for the seat in 2008, and is, of course, trying again this year. I believe my chances of winning the trust of a majority of the voters in the 25th District this November are very good, while prior voting results simply do not support the same outlook for Mr. Morovich, who earned 30.45 percent of the vote in November of 2008.

I Want the Job, and I Have a Plan to Earn It!

I have the interest and ability to bring people together and make tomorrow a better day. Just as I've been building a coalition of supporters in the campaign for, I would build a coalition of like-minded lawmakers in Washington to ensure the Constitution and its unalienable rights of Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness are upheld.

And I have an actual plan for winning in November that includes a trip to Washington this spring to meet with various congressmen and women, including those belonging to the National Republican Congressional Committee; and bridge building with the communities of East Austin.

I ask for your vote in the primary election, and hope to be earning your support in the general election.

Sincerely,

Donna Campbell, M.D.
